Queen Carol Neessen and her court: Jeanne Coolon, Judy Henricksen, Jolene Willer and Christie Fisher listen to a serenade by Tim Schumacher.

Carol Neessen Reigns At Wartburg

By ROLANDA BASLER

Miss Carol Neessen from DeWitt was crowned as Wartburg College Homecoming Queen by college president John W. Bachman at Thursday evening's coronation ceremony, "Evening in Court."

The coronation ceremony was set in a medieval court of an English castle. Participating in the ceremony were a string quartet, madrigal group, honor guard, herald, royal trumpeter and court jesters.

Attending Queen Carol are Jeanne Coolon, Christie Fisher, Judy Henricksen and Jolene Willer.

Reads Proclamation

Smiling through tears the lovely Queen Carol read the Homecoming proclamation and formally knighted Joe Bleakley, student body president.

Catherine Carroll Muehling, who was last year's Homecoming queen, was unable to crown the new queen, but sent her best wishes and congratulations.

When asked how she felt about being homecoming queen, Carol said, "I can't believe it. I wish everyone could feel the way I feel now. I'd like to thank everyone."

Is From DeWitt

Carol, an attractive strawberry blonde, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neessen of De Witt. She is majoring in music and is a member of the Wartburg College Choir, Senate and has been elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

She is also serving as corresponding secretary for the student body and is the president of Pi Sigma.

Being queen is not new to Carol. She was the homecoming queen during her senior year in high school. Last December she was the queen of the Pi Sigma Christmas Ball.

Attendants Are Thrilled

Miss Neessen's attendants were very thrilled and happy to have such an honor. Said Christie Fisher, "It's such an honor to represent the Wartburg student body. I wish the football and cross-country teams success."

Christie is an elementary education major from Aplington. She was the Winter Sports Queen in 1966, and was a princess in the Pi Sigma Christmas Ball last December.

Judy Henricksen is also from De Witt and is a close friend of Carol. She is an elementary education major. When asked how she felt about being an attendant she said, "I just love it, I'm so happy."

Jeanne Coolon, a feature writer for the Trumpet, is a social work major from Davenport. She said happily, "It's all so exciting and fabulous."

Coronation Is Beautiful

Jolene Willer was very impressed with the coronation.

"They put so much work into it. It really was beautiful," Jolene is a social work major from Cedar Rapids.

The Queen and her court were presented at the pep rally at the fairgrounds following the coronation. Friday evening a reception was held in Centennial Lounge to honor Queen Carol and her court.

On Saturday they appeared in the homecoming parade and were presented again at half-time at the Wartburg-Buena Vista football game at Schield Stadium. They will be presented with their escorts at the homecoming dance Saturday evening at 10 p.m.

Editorial

Trumpet Welcomes Alumni

The Wartburg Trumpet welcomes alumni to the college's 1967 Homecoming.

Even if you have been away from your alma mater only since last May, you are no doubt pleasantly surprised at the improvements made at Wartburg for the school year 1967-68. The new Becker Hall of Science is an impressive addition to our campus now that it is nearly completed. It serves its intended purpose well, and the students thoroughly enjoy using its facilities.

New Dorms Ready

Our new dormitories will soon be ready for use, and already the tennis courts are being used by students and faculty alike. A new parking lot has been put to use this year to alleviate last year's crowded parking conditions.

The new organ located in Neumann Chapel-auditorium will prove to be the envy of many other colleges.

The 4-4-1 program, although it still has many problems which must be solved, is predicted to become even more successful than our old system was at educating the undergraduate student.

Wartburg 'Moves'

Wartburg is definitely on the move. Although it retains most of the values and traditions of the small Christian liberal arts college, it is gaining more and more every year the advantages of the larger college and university.

No, Wartburg is not a Utopia. Things go wrong; frequently there is dissent; and unharmonious situations evolve at our school.

Outsiders should not, however, interpret these conflicts as proof that Wartburg is in a state of turmoil and that higher education cannot survive in such a state of unrest.

Conflicts Arise

When conflicts do arise, they are handled, for the most part, in a mature manner and with one purpose in mind--to improve Wartburg College.

As it was so eloquently pointed out by a past editor of the Trumpet through recent correspondence with the editorial board, our country was founded upon dissent.

Wartburg should be and, we believe, is proud of its students who stand up and declare their beliefs and who try to change what they feel can be improved. These are the people who will become the useful, vital citizens which this country needs.

Letters To The Editor

Reader Sees 'Anti' Spirit In 2 Trumpet Editorials

To the Editor:

The two editorials the week before last--"Arise, Appraise Yourself," and "Step Forth, Meet Joe"--suggested more than an anti-apathy and nonconformity plea on the part of the editor. Rather, I sensed a mood of anti-culture, anti-morality, anti-society and anti-Wartburg.

I am not denying the value and necessity of appraisal and non-conformity urged by the first editorial. On the contrary, both are a vital part of maturity, self-knowledge and self-improvement.

Yet maturity also involves an awareness of one's environment and culture and its legal and moral codes. It is evident that the latter do change; however, this is a slow evolutionary process.

The Wartburg student adhering to the editor's suggestions for an appraisal of self and environment and subsequent actions, would quickly find himself an outcast of his environment.

Why? Simply because Wartburg is a miniature community with codes and restrictions similar to any other civilized culture. The mature, responsible individual will appraise himself and his environment and will act accordingly to effect changes and improvements where desired and necessary.

The immature and unthinking person will hastily rebel against his environment. In such cases, society also accommodates such persons by changing their environment for them--to a mental or penal institution or to a quick death.

And if they say dying is such "a great experience," perhaps such persons will find fulfillment. As for me, I would rather live by the rules, attempt to alter them if need be and possibly with luck I may still find some thrill in living--without promiscuity, LSD and coed dormitories.

The second editorial "Step Forth, Meet Joe" touched off a recollection of a story many of us have heard about the Good Samaritan who went out of his way to be a friend in need, even to a perfect stranger.

Perhaps there is a phony social atmosphere on campus as the editorial proclaims. And if uttering a simple "hi" results in a bad case of hives, jitters, B. O. or mental torture, by all means, ABSTAIN! Wartburg doesn't want a student body composed of ill-smelling neurotics.

Somehow, I don't find myself reacting in such a manner. Instead, I've found that a friendly smile and a simple "hi"--even to a so-called "stranger" with a familiar face--makes the day a little brighter.

It seems to indicate that people are willing to be friendly, to meet you halfway. I can see no justification for condemning or squelching such a healthy attitude.

In fact, I would hope to see it more cultivated in all people.

For the person who is reluctant to say "hi" as he approaches a fellow being because he might be linked with LSD or looked upon as a maser, then I urge him to refrain and remain dumb--but SMILE as you pass by.

I'll be the poor snubbed slob who says HI.

'Hustle' Campaign Is Criticized; Academic Pursuits Are Stressed

To the Editor:

Women at Wartburg College have bemoaned an apparent lack of requests from the men at Wartburg for the pleasure of their company at various social events. That is to say, the men on campus do not with any degree of regularity ask the women on campus for dates to events such as football games, dances, concerts, public lectures, etc.

In an effort to alleviate this "deplorable" situation, the women instituted a "Take Heart and Hustle" campaign in which each man was urged to ask a young lady to accompany him to the various activities during the Homecoming weekend.

Reward Is 50c

The reward for such gallantry would be a 50 cent donation which each young lady who was asked would make to a common fund. The male housing unit with the highest percentage of participation would be given this booty.

Thus, the women of Wartburg College placed themselves in the absurdity of offering to pay money for the opportunity to accompany Wartburg men.

Only a decent respect for the dignity of the Wartburg women prevented an outburst of rollicking laughter at Wartburg with the announcement of the "Take Heart and Hustle" campaign. President Bachman reminded the student body at the opening convocation that "we are here to learn." Clearly, many women at Wartburg College are here for purposes other than acquiring an education.

Doesn't Indicate Apathy

The fact that Wartburg men don't ask the women to go out with them as often as the women would like does not in any way indicate a mood of apathy, which some feel pervades this campus. Nor does it indicate anything about the Wartburg women as some have rudely suggested.

It DOES indicate a sense of dedication of the Wartburg men to acquiring an education. The fact that the men of Wartburg do not pay as much attention to the women at school as the women would like indicates that the men have more important things to do AT THIS TIME than to chase after women.

When reduced to its elementary forms, the "Take Heart and Hustle" campaign was a stroke of unmitigated audacity on the part of the Wartburg women. It was, in effect, asking the men to throw away their books and money for a season in order to favor the Wartburg women with their company.

Questions Women's Rights

This audacity is intensified by the fact that the very presence of women at college is a matter open for debate. The Wartburg women should not provoke the Wartburg men to action which would have serious consequences for women who truly desire to get an education.

Instead of bemoaning the lack of social engagements, Wartburg women should recognize that this is a time for intellectual pursuits. Women should concern themselves with that for which they are here--namely education.

If they persist in rocking the academic boat with demands that men offer to go with them to various social activities, the men will have to re-examine their policy of allowing women at colleges.

On Senate

Swipes Go In Another Way

After last week's swipes at student government, I could do one of two things: One, I could continue criticizing the senate or moderate the column. As it turns out, it is not going to be either, but a swipe in another direction.

NELSON

Senate this week was about as usual. It went fairly smooth, and some business was transacted. President Bachman spoke to the senate on the cafeteria problem and in his explanation cleared up many misconceptions and fallacies concerning the operation of the food service. It was interesting to note that, as usual, the only students present were senators and the senate "staff."

It is also interesting to note the percentages of those students voting in all-campus elections. A 40 per cent turnout is excellent with 20 to 30 per cent being more like the average. At St. Olaf, in a recent vote, the final tally showed that 84 per cent of the student body let their opinion be known. What's with Wartburg?

Senate is lacking in some respects; not even senate will deny that. Perhaps one of the reasons for that deficiency is that the student body couldn't care less about what happens to their senators, their student body president and class officers.

Maybe that is stating it a little harshly, but if a senator realizes that he has little backing or a constituency that cares very little about about what he is doing, how else can he feel? Maybe a little more interest on our part might help get "that machine rolling."

Dr. Bachman has consented to make the same presentation to the student body that he gave before Senate. It concerns the cafeteria and will, I am sure, answer many questions. It will not be required, so the attendance should be an index as to how interested we really are. Watch for the date.

A Message From The Student Body President

Senate Totters On

Amid the general excitement of Homecoming and the frustration of mid-term exams student senate totters onward. In spite of a general conflict in activities and five absences at our last meeting, there are still a couple of items which were brought up that are of vital interest to you, the student body.

Senate is attempting to deal with a situation of general distrust which exists between the student body and the administration over the situation of food in the cafeteria. Senate is aware that you have many complaints regarding the food service.

A student body meeting has been devoted to this issue, and more complaints have been registered.

Another meeting is being planned to probe this issue further; you will then have the opportunity to address questions to the administration. I hope this next meeting regarding the food service will be another step toward resolution of the problem.

Last year there was some demand that the student body adopt a new constitution. From personal experience I am painfully aware of the drawbacks of our present constitution.

A committee has been created to consider our present document and to propose changes. Information is being obtained from other colleges and the N. S. A. pertaining to constitutional revision.

If you have any questions or criticisms, please let me know.

Players Present 'Macbeth'; Give Fine Entertainment

By LARRY ENGLUND

The Wartburg Players, under the direction of Richard Shaper, last weekend presented their version of "Macbeth" to the Wartburg community. It was a colorful, exciting spectacle and proved to be an evening of fine entertainment.

Dick Briner played the ambitious Macbeth. His highly charged interpretation of Shakespeare's tyrant added greatly to the tension of the play (especially when his zeal caused fellow thespian Jim Loveridge to require six stitches in his head).

Lady Macbeth, as played by Naomi Drury, was quite intense. Though at times her voice bordered on the brink of monotony, it exemplified the driving ambition which was the nature of Lady Macbeth. I could not help but despise her when she accused her husband of being afraid to kill the king.

Macduff Deserves Kudos

Ralph Lohse as Malcolm and Jim Loveridge as Macduff also deserve kudos for keeping the play moving with their fine acting. Both are veterans of the Wartburg stage and show it in their performances. Jim had a tendency to overact in his first scenes, but settled down as the play progressed.

Roger Masten was the thoughtful Banquo, who figured out the intentions of his friend Macbeth. Unfortunately, Shakespeare had Macbeth kill Banquo in the first act, and so the audience was kept from seeing much of him, though he was important to the play.

Roger's performance leads me to conjecture that we'll be seeing more of him in future productions.

The weird sisters and their crony, Hecate, were delightfully weird as they set about giving Macbeth riddles which eventually led to his destruction. Their screeching and cackling were enough to make the blood of any upstanding young fellow run cold.

Scrape away the hideous make-up, and the hags turn out to be Lynne Bradley, Jo Ellingson, Ruth Gerdes and Nancy Peterson.

Production Bogs Down

The production bogged down in two areas, the acting of the minor characters and the lighting. A few basic lessons in acting and stage presence would have put a polish on the production that wasn't quite there.

Lines could have been cut a little closer, movements on stage could have been a bit smoother and characterizations did not have to be dropped so easily when a line was missed.

Notable exceptions to these annoyances were Mary Peters as Lady Macduff, Tim Schumacher as the old messenger and Randy Wright as the porter.

As for the lighting, its unevenness caused many an eye to strain to recognize characters. I saw both evening performances, and can happily say that there was a definite improvement on the second night. Still, there were dark spots on the stage where there needn't have been any.

Set Is Impressive

The set itself is impressive. It's a good idea to arrive at the theatre early so that you may surely inspect it. Two months were consumed in the construction of it, and the finished product is something the Players can be proud of.

The costuming was also made from scratch, with the stagecraft class providing most of the labor. Again, the workers can be proud of their work.

When all aspects are considered, "Macbeth" is, indeed, fine entertainment. If you haven't seen it, you still have a chance, as it is being given again tonight as part of the Homecoming festivities.

The curtain will rise at 7:15 p.m. so that theatre-goers will have a chance to attend the dance if they wish. Go. Its faults are few. Its virtues, many.

Student Jobs Are Available

Off-campus employment is offered to interested students.

They are asked to register with Walter Frederick's secretary in the business office. When registering, the students are asked to indicate the types of employment in which they are interested.

Wartburg has been receiving calls from businessmen and householders desiring students for employment.

Various types of employment available include housework, babysitting, yardwork, washing windows, etc. There have also been a few calls for permanent part-time work.

Wages are worked out between the student and the employer.

Students interested in employment may also check the Employment Call Board in Luther Hall where various types of available employment are posted, according to the business office.

APG Breakfast To Be Tomorrow

Fortress pictures for sophomores, juniors and faculty will be taken Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 24-25. Pictures will be taken from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Wartburg Hall Lounge.

All sophomores are to come on Tuesday and juniors are to come on Wednesday. All faculty members are requested to have new pictures taken this year. As usual, they will be taken free, according to Sue Radig, Fortress editor.

Briner Selected To Attend Mich. Seminar For Interns

K. D. Briner, English Department, has been selected to attend the Seminar for Interns Oct. 26-28, at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, Mich.

The Seminar was held in conjunction with the National Conference of the AGLS (Association for General and Liberal Studies). Initiated two years ago the Seminar promotes experimental educational programs such as Wartburg's 4-4-1. Great Issues and Honors programs.

Purpose of the National Conference of the AGLS is to exchange information and ideas about programs not limited to the traditional educational system.

"The concept of most importance is that this group will not only listen to and discuss ideas, but will also bring these ideas back to Wartburg," Briner emphasized.

The Seminar is made up of young teachers and prospective teachers under thirty years of age and at the college level. Selection is made according to recommendations of AGLS members, available funds and geographical distribution.

The young interns must show scholarly ability as evidenced by some research, thesis or scholarly paper. They must also indicate an interest in teaching at a general college level.

The selected group will be given awards covering registration fees and housing. This does not include meals or transportation to and from the conference.

Reunions Attract Wartburg Alumni

Nine reunions will attract the alumni to Wartburg this Homecoming weekend, according to the alumni office. These reunions will include those of the classes of 1942, 1947, 1952 and 1962. The annual Vollmer House get-together, the annual Alpha Phi Gamma breakfast for journalism alumni, a buffet for former athletes who are members of the W-Club, a dinner for former student body presidents and vice presidents, and a dinner for past secretaries to Dean Earnest F. Oppermann.

The class reunions are organized by local planning committees, who plan a class dinner and invite members of the Wartburg faculty as guests. However, plenty of time is left for the alumni to do with as they choose.

The main reason for attending the reunions will be for visiting with old friends. A better attendance by those in charge is expected at the special interest reunions than at the class reunions.

Spanky, Gang Will Be Here

Spanky and Our Gang will present this year's Fall Pops Concert Thursday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Neumann Chapel-auditorium.

All the members of Spanky and Our Gang are accomplished pop artists who have had extensive professional experience. This is apparent in the group's remarkable versatility and the strikingly close harmonies.

Some of the hits include "Sunday Will Never Be The Same," "Making Every Minute Count," and their latest hit, "Lazy Day."

Tickets To Be Sold

Art Alt, social activities director, has announced that student tickets will go on sale Oct. 25-30 at the reduced price of $2.50, $3.50 and $4.50.

Clinton Will End Housing Of Girls

Upon completion of the women's new housing complex, reportedly by the end of the fall term, Clinton Hall will close its doors to women residents and become the all-male dormitory for which it was originally intended.

As part of the only co-educational dormitory on campus, the Clinton "Cloister" was formed in January, 1966, to alleviate a severe women's housing shortage.

Is Convenient

Although the first floor of the south addition of Clinton Hall was not constructed with women residents in mind, facilities such as its own lounge made it both a suitable and a convenient solution to the housing shortage problem.

The original Cloister residents numbered 31, most of them being seniors. Last year, the first full year of its existence, the Cloister again housed mostly senior women.

This year the Cloister claims

44 residents, of whom only 9 are seniors. Fifteen of the 44 will be the first to move into one of the new units.

The Cloister operates on the same basis as does any other junior - senior women's residence, with a head resident and an assistant acting in approximately the same capacity as a housemother in another dorm.

Procedure Is Indefinite

According to Dean Earnest F. Oppermann, the procedure for placing men residents on the floor after the girls are out is indefinite, but any rooms in the men's dormitories which are presently tripled will be the first to be moved.

Upon converting the floor to a men's residence, the front door will be removed in order to enlarge the present lounge facilities for all residents of the dorm.

Another change will be in the use of the back entrance, which presently serves only as an emergency fire escape.

Mrs. Garland Receives Award

Mrs. Margaret Garland, of the English and Journalism Department here, was named the recipient of the Poetry Achievement Award for 1967 by the Iowa Poetry Day Association last Saturday.

The Association's annual convention was held in Cedar Rapids. The award has been presented annually since 1954 to a member of the Iowa Poetry Day Association.

Explanation Given

In the foreword of the annual Brochure of Poems published by the Association, the following explanation is given: "She has been cited for Poetry Achievement in her own right and for her capable instruction given to from dorm representatives whose names will be announced.

Tickets for the general public will go on sale starting Oct. 31 at the price of $3, $4 and $5.

All seats will be reserved, and people planning to attend together should buy their tickets at the same time to assure adjacent seats. Alt also would like to remind the girls that the tickets are rather expensive and their dates might appreciate help in financing the evening.

Albums Available

Record Albums and 45's of Spanky and Our Gang are available in the dorms for anyone interested in a preview.

Art Alt has requested that everyone leave the Spanky and Our Gang posters alone. The posters are expensive and they are needed for publicity.

students at Wartburg College."

Also included in the introduction to this brochure, which went on sale Saturday, is her picture and biography.

The brochure includes three of her poems, one of which received a first place in the Light Verse Contest, and another an Honorable Mention in the General Adult Contest.

Anderson Also Included

Of the three poems published in the College Division of the brochure, the second-place winner was a student of Mrs. Garland's when the poem was submitted, Carol Anderson, editor of this year's Wartburg College literary magazine.

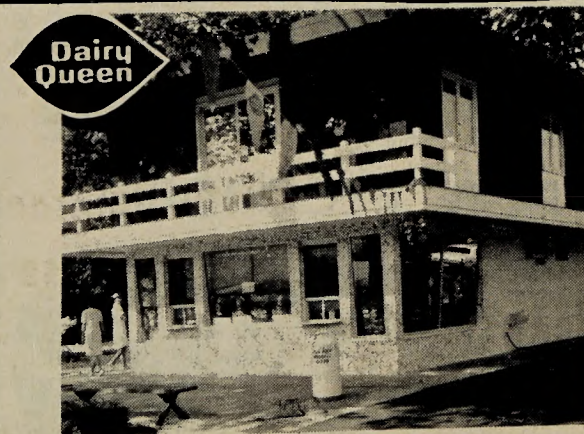

At the IPDA convention, Saturday, Mrs. Garland was the main speaker during the morning session. She served as critic judge of the poems which had been previously submitted by members.

Concert Tickets To Be Available

Reservations for the Sunday, Oct. 29, Artist Series may be made in the foyer of the Neumann Chapel-auditorium on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 23 and 24, from 8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

1947 Homecoming Differs From Present Festivities

By MARTHA MOORE

Deep in the labyrinthine hollows of the Homuth Memorial Library lies a collection of mammoth black books--the bound editions of past Wartburg Trumpet issues. From these aging pages comes the true story: Homecoming Twenty Years ago--1947.

From Oct. 30 to Nov. 2 the theme "Wartburg, Go!" echoed from the heart of this astute institution.

Activities included two nights of Kastle Kapers, the traditional bonfire and pep rally, the parade, the football game, a formal banquet, a Homecoming sermon, open house and the queen's reception.

Homecoming Is Different

Homecoming was different then--it was directed by the administration. The general chairman was the Rev. C. G. Shalkhauser, director of public relations. Under his authority were 12 student-faculty committees covering every facet of the big weekend.

Kastle Kapers opened the bill, showing on Oct. 30 and 31. Admission was 15 cents. Sophomore George Roleder was the emcee. Entrees were judged by three faculty members, two alumni and two students.

The $5 first prize went to Phoebe, the $3 second prize to the junior class and the $2 third prize to Pi Sigma.

New band uniforms highlighted the big parade, which was sponsored by Waverly business firms. The Lutheran Student Association took the $5 first place, the sophomore class won the $3 second prize and Chi Rho placed third and received $2.

Knights Beat Luther

One of the biggest events of the weekend was, of course, Wartburg's 27-20 gridiron victory over the Norsemen of Luther College. The winning touchdown was made when quarterback Darrell Doolittle passed to Lynn Brown with less than 40 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter.

(It is interesting to note that Wartburg, finishing that football season with four wins, three losses and one tie, had been considered the conference underdog.)

During halftime, the Homecoming queen was crowned. From among the five candidates chosen from the junior and senior classes, the one selected by student body vote was announced (this was a break from the former tradition of announcing the queen during Kastle Kapers).

Queen Is Crowned

The 1946 queen, Emilie Hanne-mann, was on hand to crown Barbara (Bobbie) Becker of Fond du Lac, Wis., 1967 Homecoming Queen. The queen was escorted by the Wartburg band to a place of honor in the stands.

A photograph of the five candidates reveals current fashion trends of 1947: short-sleeved pull-over sweaters, skirts just below the knee, anklets and oxfords.

The queen's banquet attire was a full-skirted formal of taffeta with a fitted velvet top sporting wide straps. Bobbie wore a crown of flowers; she was quite pretty.

As a novelty, a contest was begun during the half-time. Balloons were released with prizes to be awarded to the persons whose balloons traveled farthest before landing.

Wins Five Passes

Closing date for reporting a balloon landing was Nov. 11. Junior Doris Hagen won five free passes to the Waverly Theater for a balloon that traveled 350 miles to Manhattan, Kan.

Freshman William Domres, whose balloon went 250 miles to Missouri Valley, won three passes; alumna Dorothy Winters won two for a balloon that landed northeast of Dayton; and junior Eunice King received one pass for a balloon landing just south of Fort Dodge.

The banquet, held Saturday night at St. Paul's Parish House, was the only dress affair. Tickets were sold to alumni first, the balance being offered to the student body.

Any student who could not attend the 6:30 p.m. banquet was welcome to attend the program at 7:45 p.m.

Seegers Is Speaker

The speaker, Dr. Walter Seegers, head of the Physiology Department of Detroit's Wayne University, was a Wartburg alumnus, now on the Board of Regents. Another alumnus, the Rev. Sigmund Sandrock of Richland Center, Wis., was the banquet's toastmaster.

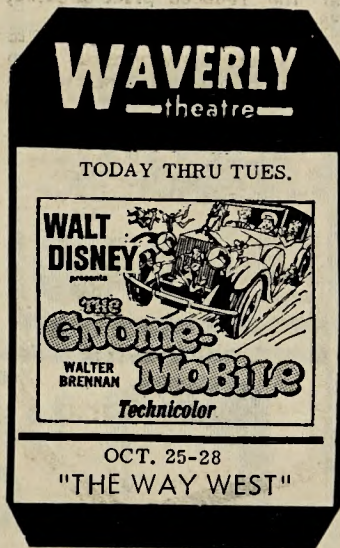

Also included in the program were a trumpet solo and a vocal quartet. The 1947 banquet was attended by 200 alumni, 130 students and 70 complimentary guests (the queen and court and 50 football players).

Sunday began with a 10:30 a.m. service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, conducted by the Rev. August Engelbrecht, president of the Illinois District of the American Lutheran Church.

Prizes Given

Open house Sunday afternoon gave prizes of $3, $2 and $1 to the following rooms: girls, 407 Wartburg Hall, 301 Wartburg Hall and Annex II; and boys, 21 Tower North Hall and 203 Grossmann Hall.

The gala weekend came to a close with the queen's reception in Wartburg Hall, and was duly recorded in the annals of time and a mammoth black book now kept in the depths of the Homuth Memorial Library.

NEW — FIND SCHOLARSHIPS BY COMPUTER

Last year $30 million in college scholarships went unclaimed — because no qualified persons applied . . . because no qualified persons knew of them. • Now ECS engineers and educators have programmed a high-speed computer with 700,000 items of scholastic aid, worth over $500 million, to permit students to easily and quickly locate scholarships for which they qualify. • The student fills out a detailed, confidential questionnaire and returns it to ECS, with a one-time computer-processing fee of $15. In seconds the computer compares his qualifications against requirements of grants set up by foundations, business, civic, fraternal, religious, and government organizations, and prints a personalized report to the student telling him where and when to apply for grants for which he qualifies. Thousands of these do not depend on scholastic standing or financial need.

Joint Concert To Be Sunday

NEWS BUREAU--A joint concert by the Utrecht Motet Society of Holland and the Horvath String Quartet of Nuernberg, Germany, will climax the Homecoming festivities here Sunday.

The two groups will perform at 8 p.m. in Neumann Auditorium. Admission will be $1.50 for adults and 75¢ for students. Tickets may be purchased at the box office the night of the concert.

Founded by Dr. Willem Mudde, the Utrecht Motet Society was organized to propagate new church music. It is heard regularly on Dutch radio, and it has sung extensively in Germany, France and Scandinavian countries. The Society is on its first American tour.

It is made up of Horvath and three of his former student colleagues from the violin and chamber music classes of his father, who is a recognized violin soloist and quartet leader in his own right.

Horvath is the group's first violin and leader. Other members are Gertrud Lang, violin; Gerhard Rehkopf, viola; and Kurt Weis, cello.

Dorms To Have Open House

Open house for all dorms and certified off-campus housing will be held Saturday, Oct. 21, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 22.

Some dorms will provide guest books which visitors will be urged to sign.

Parents, Day Plans Ready, Expected Attendance Is 400

"We expect about four hundred parents here for Parents' Day," commented the Rev. Merritt L. Bomhoff, assistant to the president in the area of development.

Parents' Day invasion will begin with parent-faculty visitation in Knights Gymnasium at 9 a.m., Nov. 4. Between 9 and 10:30 a.m. the parents may register in the gym foyer. A fee will be charged. Coffee and rolls will be served during registration and visitation.

This will cover the cost of noon lunch, coffees and the football game.

After registration a variety program will be presented in Neumann Chapel-auditorium at 10:30 p.m. Dr. Warren Schmidt will demonstrate the new $75,000

Hinrichs Memorial Organ.

The Wartburg Band and several student presentations will also be featured in the program.

To eliminate the lengthy cafeteria lines, the students will be served by lunch at 10:30 a.m. that Saturday. Parents will be served at noon.

At 1:30 p.m. in Schield Stadium the Wartburg Knights will meet Simpson in their last game of the football season. "After-the-game Coffee" will be served in Buhr Lounge of the Student Union at 3:30 p.m.

In addition to these planned activities, the recently completed Becker Hall of Science will be open all day except during the football game.

Amateur photographers looking for darkroom facilities may use Room 302 Luther Hall, according to Trumpet photographer Ken Trettin.

It is equipped with an enlarger and print dryer with another enlarger to be added soon. Only black and white photos may be developed with the equipment.

Pans and bottles are available for developing work, but the student must furnish his own printing paper and developing paper.

The equipment in the room is owned by the Development Department.

Anyone wishing to use the room may contact sophomore Mike Johansen, who takes pictures for the Development Department, or senior Ken Trettin, Trumpet and Fortress photographer.

Seniors Begin Student Teaching

Seventy-eight Wartburg students began student teaching activities last Monday under the new professional term plan.

According to Dr. Herbert J. Max, chairman of the Department of Education, the student teachers recently completed five weeks of classes in Educational Methods and Educational Psychology.

They are now in classrooms in 13 surrounding communities on a full-day basis.

The student teachers will participate in the total program of the classroom for eight weeks and then return to Wartburg Dec. 8 for one week of classes, thus completing the 14-week term.

OPEN FRIDAY NITE TIL 9:00

Film Will Open 2nd Convo Series

Second convocation sequence will be a series of six events observing the 450th anniversary of the Reformation, according to Herman W. Diers, college chaplain.

Sequence will begin Tuesday, Oct. 24, with a film entitled "The Reformation." Luther, Calvin and Ignatius of Loyola will be presented in this color film.

All three were religious reformers of the 16th century, each of whom had a style of reform all his own.

Film Is Current

The film features current scenes of Germany, France, Spain and Switzerland and are juxtaposed upon iconography, drawings, maps and recreations of locales where these theologians exerted their influence.

Second event will be the Venite service Thursday, Oct. 26. The Oratorio Chorus and the Chamber Orchestra will be performing under the direction of Franklin Williams of the Music Department.

Third event will feature one of the most significant people in convocation this year. Speaking Oct. 27, will be Dr. Michael Novak, a controversial Roman Catholic lay theologian and professor at Stanford.

Novak Is Author

His address is entitled "Always to be Reformed." He is also author of "Flirtation Without Flesh" from Motive magazine and is one of the provocative and stimulating participants for renewal in Roman Catholicism today.

This fall Dr. Novak went to Viet Nam to survey the elections there. He has since written several controversial articles about the elections.

Speaking in convocation Oct. 30, will be Dr. Ralph Moellering. His address, "Reformation through Protest," will deal with the patterns of protest and reform in the 16th and 20th centuries.

He has recently participated in the Peace Movement at Berkeley, Calif. He is also the pastor of the University Lutheran Church at Berkeley.

Fifth event will be a workshop on protest, to be held Oct. 30 at 8 p.m. in Buhr Lounge. Dr. Moellering will serve as consultant. Students will discuss what they do when they feel the pressure of paternalism on the college campus.

Alternating approaches will be discussed. The workshop is sponsored by student government.

Final event of the sequence will be Dr. Moellering presenting part two of his address, "Reformation through Protest," on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

The sequence observing the anniversary of the Reformation has been developed from the idea that in times of upheaval new life can emerge.

Venite Policy Is Explained

Homuth Memorial Library has been closed during Thursday's 10 a.m. Venite service, though service attendance is not required.

The administration decided that it would close the library to encourage the students and faculty to attend Venite.

Junior Gerald Augst and seniors James Kruger and L. Albert Sagert have been chosen by a faculty advisory committee as Wartburg's nominees for the 1968-69 Danforth Graduate Fellowships.

The committee gave special attention to three main areas in determining the candidates.

First, they considered the range of intellectual power of the students and their academic achievement in a thorough foundation for graduate study.

Applicants Are Judged

Second, the applicants were judged on their personal characteristics likely to contribute to effective teaching and constructive relationship with students.

A wide perspective in interests, as well as a serious concern for religion, was considered as the third principal area of qualification.

Purpose of the Danforth Graduate Fellowship program, established in 1951, is to give personal encouragement and financial support to selected college seniors and recent graduates.

These applicants must have a serious interest in college teaching as a career and plan to study for a Ph. D. in a field common to the undergraduate college.

May Be Single

Applicants may be either single or married, must be less than 30 years of age at the time of application and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate.

The fellowships are open to persons of any race, creed or citizenship.

This award pertains to the academic year or the calendar year, and is normally renewable for a total of four years.

Fountain To Be Winterized Soon

Wartburg campus fountain will be shut down for the winter immediately after Homecoming weekend, according to Walter Fredrick, assistant to the president in charge of business affairs.

Fredrick said that the fountain will be prepared for winter by draining it, disconnecting the pump and bringing the lights on the bottom of the fountain close in to the center, covering them with canvas.

The fountain will be brought back into operation next spring when all danger of frost is past, probably around May 1, according to Fredrick.

Fredrick said that the fountain has been a part of the campus since the 1930's. It was originally built as a college project to beautify the campus, but has become old and weather-beaten.

For this reason, said Fredrick, it was renovated two years ago by sandblasting it and adding the present lights.

Hebron Adopts Lounge Policy

Hebron Hall has put a new lounge hour policy into effect. The hours for Monday through Thursday will remain the same (4 p.m. to 10 p.m.). Fridays the hours will be from noon to 1 a.m.; Saturday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 1 a.m.; and Sundays from 8 a.m. to 12 midnight.

Monday through Saturday slacks and bermudas may be worn in the lounge. Cut-offs must be hemmed and sweatshirts may not have cut-off sleeves. Shoes must be worn in the lounge at all times. There will be no smoking or food in the lounge.

This policy will be on a trial basis through the fall term, according to Miss Barbara Belk, dean of women.

ALC Meeting Is Planned

Student delegates from Wartburg will attend a convention (TALC) of The American Lutheran Church at Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn., over Thanksgiving vacation.

Delegates from 13 schools sponsored by The ALC will attend the convention. It will be held Thursday, Nov. 23, through Saturday, Nov. 25.

Any interested student is eligible to attend this convention as a delegate, according to Mary Smith, coordinator for Wartburg. Wartburg is allotted 16, but so far 6 have elected to attend.

Speakers will be the heads of various departments of The ALC. Topic of discussion will be "Hunger as an Obstacle to World Peace."

The convention is supported and paid for by the 13 schools. Wartburg has allotted $150 in its budget for this purpose. Student delegates must pay their own travel expenses.

Law Advisers To Visit Here

Word has been received that a representative from Valparaiso School of Law will be on campus Monday.

Interested students may inquire at the dean of students office.

Dr. John Yaeger of Drake University Law School will be on Campus the morning of Friday, Oct. 27. He will be available to meet students interested in a law career in Room 210, Becker Hall, from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and after 11 a.m.

For additional information, students may contact Leslie Odene, of the Political Science Department, in Room 210, Becker Hall, Ext. 360.

BV Is Homecoming Foe Today; Knights Lose 12th Straight, 33-0

by dave westpahl. .

Last place in the Iowa Conference is at stake today as Wartburg hosts Buena Vista in the Knights' Homecoming contest.

Buena Vista won its first game of the season last week by defeating William Penn, 14-12. Wartburg, on the other hand, lost its sixth straight game of this season and twelfth consecutive loss over the last two seasons last week at Central, 33-0.

A Knight loss today would tie the school record for most consecutive losses.

BV Is Young

Wartburg Head Coach Lee Bondhus, in analyzing the Buena Vista squad, said, "They are a young team, and the win last week will certainly give them momentum."

The Beavers' entire backfield is made up of freshmen, and they have two frosh starting on defense.

Last year Buena Vista lost 15 lettermen whom they had counted on for this season, presumably because of disciplinary action.

Bondhus recalls that the Wartburg-Buena Vista series has seen some close contests in recent years.

"Two years ago we lost 6-0, and last year we were defeated, 32-28. In that game we had a touchdown called back in the last period because of a penalty, and we were later stopped on their one-foot line," commented Bondhus.

Bondhus noted that the Beavers have average size and speed, except for 270-pound senior Doyle Douglas, center.

Even though Wartburg holds down the bottom spot in the standings with a 0-4 mark, the Beavers are last in both team offense and defense. Buena Vista has rolled up 164 yards a game as compared with Wartburg's 185, and the Beavers have allowed an average of 304 yards per game to the Knights' 295.

Bondhus Is Undecided

Coach Bondhus has not yet definitely decided on the starting quarterback for today's game. He has been alternating junior Paul Specht and freshman Terry Goetzinger in the number one signal-calling position.

"I probably won't decide until one o'clock Saturday afternoon who will start," said Bondhus.

Freshman quarterback Phil Smoker, who led the junior varsity to a 2-1 record this year, is also scheduled to see some action in the three remaining games.

Other line-up changes for today's contest will be freshman Jim Hotz, who will start at split-end. He takes junior Bob Larson's position, who will start at flanker back in place of the injured Clarence Allen.

Larson also will start in the defensive backfield.

In the offensive line junior Bob Olson will start at right tackle, and sophomore Fred Howard will play first-string center.

McMurray Is Hurt

A questionable defensive starter for the Knights is middle line-backer Murray McMurray. He sustained a knee injury in last week's game with Central.

Freshman Mike Grosvenor will be his replacement.

Asked whether the Homecoming spirit might help the team to victory, Coach Bondhus replied, "If the players realize they are a part of Homecoming, I'm sure it will be beneficial."

"But they must be careful they don't become involved in so many activities that they lose sight of their role," he added.

In last Saturday's game with Central the Knights had a great opportunity to knot the score at 7-7 after freshman Greg Slager blocked a punt which gave Wartburg the ball on the two-yard line.

Threat Dies

This threat died quickly, as the ball was fumbled on the first play.

"That fumble definitely affected our attitude for the whole game," said Bondhus. "It seems that the psychological effect of our mistakes is more harmful than the mistake itself."

"Our boys have to realize that we are a young team, and that mistakes are going to occur. But we just can't pack up and go home the minute some little thing goes wrong," Bondhus continued.

"Central was a better team than us, but not as much as the score would indicate. Van Boven was definitely the best ball carrier we've seen all year," he said.

Quiet Sauerbrei Bolsters Improved Defensive Line

By LES GYLLSTROM

Quick, tough and competitive are the three adjectives Coach Lee Bondhus used to describe defensive lineman Jim Sauerbrei.

Sauerbrei, a junior who played his high school ball here at Waverly, plays guard in the Knights' defensive line, and, according to Bondhus, is becoming one of the best in the Iowa Conference.

"Jim Sauerbrei is a quiet individual on the team," said Bondhus. "But he leads with his actions rather than his words."

Sauerbrei sat out much of the first part of the season because of a knee injury. At this time he was playing defensive end.

When he returned to the line-up, it was at defensive guard against Luther, and he has been there ever since.

Coach Bondhus cited Sauerbrei for playing good football against Luther, Dubuque and Central.

"He didn't play much until the last three games," commented Bondhus. "He's played real well since he got back into the line-up."

Season Is Discouraging

Sauerbrei admits that this season is a little discouraging to him, but feels that the trouble does not lie in the team's ability.

"The ability isn't lacking," said Sauerbrei. "We have, I feel, the capability of being one of the best teams in the conference. Every man on the squad feels this way."

"Our big problem is all mental," he said. "The opposing teams scores a touchdown, and we start to lose our confidence. Or if we make a mistake we just can't maintain a winning habit."

"We all want to win so bad, we just can't let ourselves get down in the game."

Sauerbrei also mentioned the fact that the team seemed unable to take advantage of the breaks.

"Sure, the breaks have gone against us this year," he said. "When we do get the breaks, we just can't take advantage of them."

Looking ahead to the Homecoming game with the Buena Vista Beavers, Sauerbrei said, "If we score first, or the first time we get the ball, I definitely think we'll beat them."

BV Is Inexperienced

"They were a tough ball club last year, but from some of the reports we've gotten, they have new and inexperienced ball players this year."

Sauerbrei again added, "We could beat anyone, if we carry through the whole game with the motivation to win."

Branch -- Out On A Limb

Harriers Wale On Luther

By JIM KIEFER

Wartburg's cross-country team scored a very impressive win over Luther Wednesday night. It keeps Wartburg's record perfect (7-0). Freshman Doug Beck was a pleasant surprise when he ended up first in the race. I hope the cross-country team keeps right on winning. I also hope the win over Luther starts a trend which will continue throughout the year.

Maybe Homecoming will bring a football victory to Wartburg. It was the same old story for the Knights last week. Wartburg beat itself. If the Knights are going to win, they have to cut out the fumbles, bad snaps from center and the pass interceptions. The Junior Varsity team lost to a very fine U. N. I. team last Monday afternoon. Once again freshman Phil Smoker did a fine job of handling the Knight offense. Poor pass defense by the Knights cost them several touchdowns.

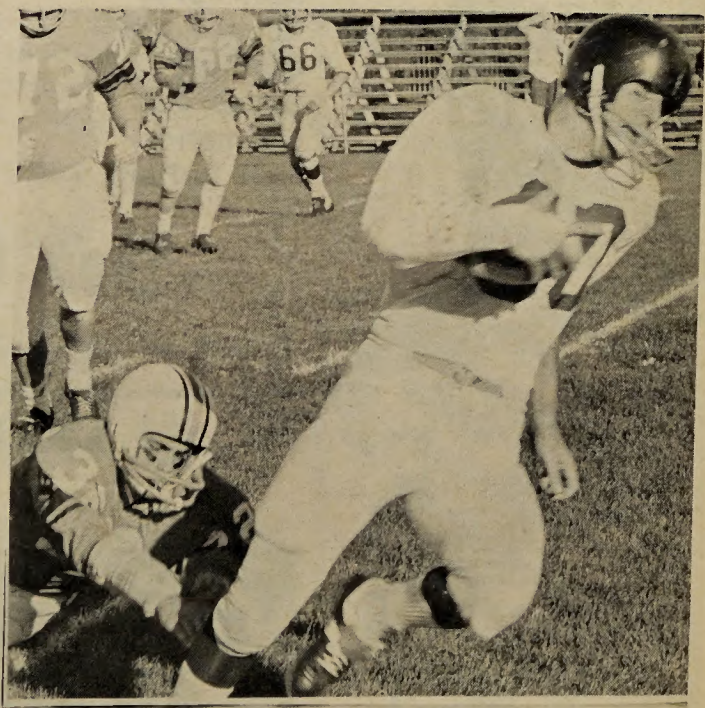

The referees in the Iowa Conference have been nothing to brag about. When a referee can't mark off a 15-yard penalty correctly, it's time for him to hang up his whistle. Of course, one thing to remember is that our refs are assigned by the Iowa Conference Commissioner (our old friend Mr. Ryan).

Well, I must add that Indiana beat Iowa last Saturday. I was told that Indiana was so over-confident that Iowa almost upset them. I suggest that they change the name of the Big Ten to the Big Nine, Iowa dropping out of the Big Ten with a possible chance of getting into the Iowa Conference. This would give Iowa football coach Ray Nagel something to look forward to.

I was trying to think if I had neglected to mention any of Wartburg's sports in my column. I thought of girl-watching, but quickly abandoned it because it would probably just be another last place for us in the conference. I thought maybe after Halloween our girl-watching sport would improve. Some people consider eating a sport. Well, you've got to admit, it's certainly a challenge at Wartburg.

Junior Jim Sauerbrei has been a key factor this year in the Knights' defensive unit.

This was a typical scene last Monday night as a U. N. I. runner races for the goal line. The U. N. I. freshmen defeated Wartburg's Junior Varsity squad 4-20.

Harriers Run Past Luther For First Time Since 1963

For the first time since 1963 Wartburg's cross-country squad defeated Luther in a dual meet. The trick was performed last Wednesday afternoon with the Knights claiming a commanding 21-34 victory.

Wartburg grabbed first, second, fourth, fifth and ninth places.

Today the harriers will host Upper Iowa and Buena Vista at 11:30 a.m. at the Waverly Country Club. Coach John Kurtt said that there had been a good crowd at the Luther meet and he expects another good crowd for Homecoming.

Freshman Doug Beck was the surprising individual winner for the Knights, with a time of 20:44.8 over the four-mile course.

Kurtt Not Surprised

Coach Kurtt explained that Beck's fine performance was no surprise to him, and added that "we had planned the race that way."

"We told Doug to stay with the group for two miles, and then move out if he was ready. He doesn't have the strong kick at the finish which Holt and Thieman have, but it is better than average," commented Kurtt.

Kurtt observed that Rod Holt ran exceptionally well also. Holt stayed on the tail of Luther's Bruce Sundet throughout the race, and sprinted around him coming up to the finish line.

Fourth - place finisher Jon Thieman put on a tremendous kick at the finish, and barely came up short behind Sundet.

Jeff Christensen finished fifth behind Thieman, but was far ahead of Luther's sixth - place runner.

Kurtt Praises Sexton

Coach Kurtt had high praise for Terry Sexton, who finished ninth.

The ease with which the Knights defeated Luther was unexpected by most observers of the race.

Luther had beaten the University of Northern Iowa by a score of 26-29, and Wartburg just barely edged U. N. I. by one point, 27-28.

The outcome of the meet was not, however, surprising to Coach Kurtt.

"We were very confident in this race, as confident as I have ever seen a team be," he said.

"The boys did not have a good day against U. N. I. We could have beaten them much easier than we actually did," added Kurtt.

Boys Realize Potential

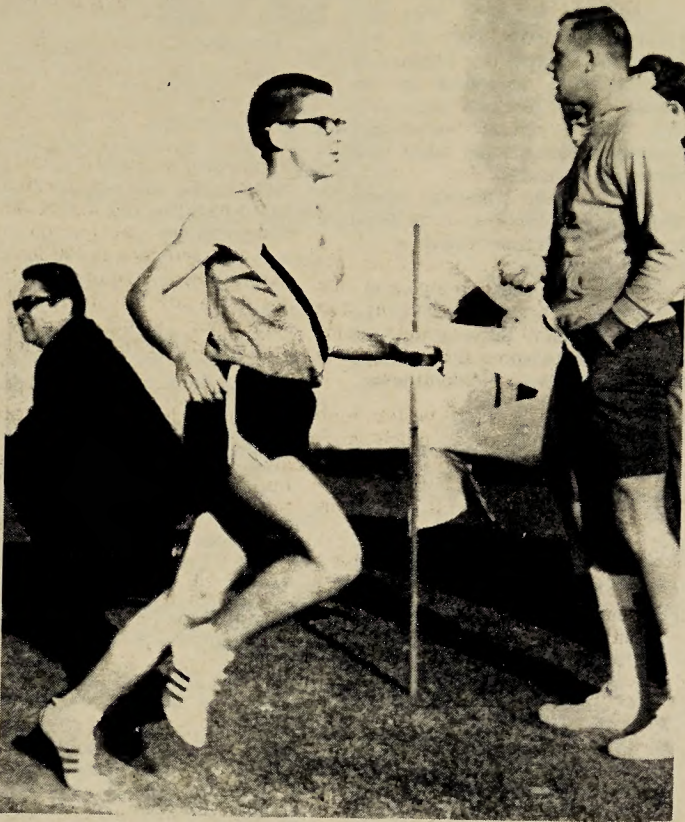

Looking ahead to the Conference meet to be held this Friday at Waverly, Kurtt said, "The boys are beginning to realize their potential, and are quite confident they will be Conference champions."

Kurtt said that if he got another top performance from his "fear-some foursome" (Beck, Thieman, Holt and Christensen), and if Sexton runs as well as he did last Wednesday, the Knights would claim the 1967 cross-country championship.

Wartburg won this title before in 1963, but Luther has won it every year since.

Freshman Doug Beck crosses the finish line to take first place in Wartburg's cross-country victory over Luther. It was the first time since 1963 that Luther has lost to Wartburg in cross-country.

Terry Sexton moves out on an unidentified Luther harrier in Thursday's cross-country meet. Sexton has added strength to Wartburg's undefeated cross-country team.

Clinton III Loses First IM Game

By JIM KIEFER

Only two intramural games were played last week. Tuesday North Hall defeated Clinton I-Alpha, 29-18.

In a makeup last Wednesday Clinton Ground held on to beat Clinton III, 18-12. Derry Brunscheen scored two touchdowns for the winners. Jim Nelson added one.

It was Clinton III's first loss and virtually eliminated it from the race.

Here are the standings as of this week:

Harrier Terry Sexton Fills Important 5th Man Position

By DAVE EVANS

Cross-country is a sport in which one individual cannot carry the team. It requires a five-man effort. The fifth runner is just as important as the first runner.

Finding a good fifth runner is not an easy task. However, Wartburg is fortunate in having a fine runner in junior Terry Sexton.

Cross - country coach John Kurtt says that Sexton is a truly dedicated runner.

"He has been under a great deal of pain because of a back injury," explained Kurtt.

"He has missed the last couple weeks of practice, but he still comes out to help us in the meets."

Sexton Is In 2nd Year

Sexton, who is majoring in psychology, is in his second year of cross - country. He ran his freshman year, but last year he had shin splints, so he was unable to run.

conditioning is . . . "Getting in condition is the hardest phase of cross-country for me," explained Sexton. "It requires both mental and physical conditioning. At the beginning of the year I know that I can run four miles, but I don't know if I can race it.

"I don't really worry about the pace," he continued. "I just try to stay up with the leaders as long as possible."

He said that he didn't believe that running on the home course is any definite advantage. Sexton explained that team members go over the course an hour before the meet, so they know what to expect.

Sexton explained how he prepares himself for a meet:

"I pick out the toughest meets before the season starts. I always look ahead to these, and I think about them all the time. By the time the meet comes up, I am ready for it."

Central Lengthens IIAC Streak To 19

(IIAC News Service)

Only two teams appear still to have a chance to catch Central in the Iowa Conference football standings.

They are Luther and Simpson, both winners last week--the Norse 28-6 over arch-rival Upper Iowa and Simpson 27-7 over Dubuque.

William Penn suffered a major setback when it was upset 14-12 by Buena Vista. The Beavers had not won going into that game.

Central, meanwhile, was extending its IIAC winning streak to 19 games by shutting out punchless Wartburg 33-0. The Knights have not scored a touchdown since their league opener Sept. 23 against William Penn.

The conference's key game this week will be Luther at Penn. Both must win in order to stay in the race. A loss for the Statesmen would virtually eliminate any title hopes.

Central will be looking for its 20th straight at Dubuque; Simpson will host Upper Iowa in a night game; and Buena Vista will be at Wartburg for the Knights' Homecoming.

Central's Doug Van Boven, despite playing only a half against Wartburg, extended his rushing and scoring leads with a 105-yard, three-touchdown performance against the Knights.

The fleet Van Boven now has 651 yards rushing and 66 points in four conference games. Joe Blake and Jim Henderson of Simpson maintained their top rankings in passing (515 yards and six touchdowns) and pass-receiving (24 receptions for 307 yards and four TDs) respectively; and Francis Johnston of Upper Iowa held his punting lead by six-tenths of a yard over Doyle Douglas of Buena Vista (42.7-42.1).

Tanzanian Attache Affirms Independent Nationalism

By CAROL BECKER

An affirmation for independent African nationalism was made at Wartburg College Monday by the educational attache for the Embassy of Tanzania.

Sam Kishosha, the last of three speakers in Wartburg's "Nationalism: Promise or Peril?" convocation series, said "Africans are resolved that their entire continent will be free."

In order for this to be accomplished, he explained, Portugal must yield its African territories; South Africa must be compelled to desist from its policy of "apartheid" (separation of races); and Ian Smith must be removed from Rhodesia. "Nationalism in Africa," which Kishosha defined as a desire for independence, "is presently all-encompassing, but each nation will develop according to its needs, customs and problems."

Will Develop Unity

Eventually, he continued, the continent will develop a unity of purpose, and "that will end parochial nationalism."

Kishosha is a believer in a Tanzania "built by Tanzanians" with outside aid only an extra.

"Consequently, we will receive economic assistance from anyone. We must take a pragmatic approach to economic independence; otherwise, there will be no political independence."

Nationalism in Africa, he said, was partially motivated by ideas from the West, and he cited three factors in current African thinking.

Africans Want Freedom

Number one, he said, is the desire of Africans to live in freedom according to their own customs. Two is the importation of the doctrines of equality and democracy, and three is the reaction of Africans to being treated as slaves.

The Western nations, he said, must get over the idea that every nationalist movement is "communist-led."

"Just because the arms are from communist countries, that does not mean the movement is led by communists. If we could get arms from NATO countries, fine. If not, we go where we can get them."

"Communism doesn't enter into the movement at all. It's simply a matter of Africans wanting to be free and using force if necessary."

Kishosha pointed out that there is a difference between Pan-Africanism and a desire on the part of individual African states to have unity and freedom.

He also said that nationalism must prevail in Africa until she is free of all colonialism.

Since Pan-Africanism and the drive for state independence both require a certain amount of loyalty, a dilemma arises for the people of Africa.

Speaker Was Vague

Kishosha explained this dilemma very well, but he was somewhat vague in explaining exactly what he meant by the "unity of action and purpose" that will eventually overcome parochial nationalism when that becomes desirable.

On the whole Kishosha spoke well for his country. It is good to hear an African's view of Africa's problems.

The convocation series on nationalism is over. Not all of the speeches were outstanding, but all of the speakers had something to say that was worth hearing.

Students Are Rude

We can hardly criticize the speakers without a few words about the audience as well.

Many students slept through one or more of the sessions. Others studied. In light of the fact that convocation is required, perhaps these people had no choice. There was nothing else they could do except listen.

It is entirely unnecessary, however, for students to get up and leave before the speaker of the host is finished speaking. We have not been kept so late that we could not make our 11 a.m. classes. Therefore, our anxiousness to depart is nothing but rudeness.

Rod Aaberg To Provide Dance Music

The Rod Aaberg Orchestra will provide music at the dance in the Knights Gymnasium tonight beginning at 9 p.m.

"Luau" is the theme, giving the dance a Hawaiian outdoor setting. Refreshments will be available in a wooden shack, to add to the setting. Other attractions will also be featured.

Brad Williams, chairman of the dance, said, "The orchestra is a good collegiate band, featuring slow dance music, and they are good at requests."

"Wartburg."

"Where?"

"Wartburg."

"What? Is this some type of joke?"

"No, it's a small church college in Waverly, Iowa."

"Waverly, Iowa? Look, if you don't want to answer the questions, OK! We'll hang up."

"No, really, it's a small college, an eastern college in the Midwest, located right near Waterloo, Iowa."

"Waterloo? Now come on. I can take a joke as well as the next guy, but..."

"Look, why don't we forget about the name and assume I go to college. What's the next question?"

"OK. As a college student, how many LSD trips did you take this year?"

"First or second semester?"

"Both--the total."

"None."

"None? Who are you trying to kid? A college student with no trips?"

"Forget it. Next question."

"All right, how many drinks do you average during the normal day?"

"Before or after supper?"

"Total."

"None."

"OK. Maybe you don't like drugs or liquor; you must know what is going on around the campus. What is the most popular dance on campus?"

"The twist, I think. I don't go to many dances."

"Who is the most popular band on campus?"

"Robin Hood's."

"What sort of campus entertainment do you have?"

"We are going to have Spanky and Our Gang this fall and possibly Ferrante and Teicher this spring for our Pops concerts."

"Weren't those the acts that killed vaudeville? How about who is your favorite Biblical character?"

"Charlton Heston."

"What's the big deal on campus? What controversy is raging?"

"Some of the kids don't like the cafeteria this year."

"What about Vietnam?"

"Never touch the stuff, but it's on the menu for next week."

"I mean, what do the kids think about the war?"

"Funny you should mention that. A friend and I were talking about it. What do you think they will do with the Kaiser?"

"Skip it, kid. Why don't we forget this joke? You're no more of a college student than I am."

"No, really, there are college students who don't take trips, other than to home, who don't drink. There are kids..."

"Look, what are you, some sort of commie? Or am I talking to Ronald Reagan? It's kids like you who ruin the image of American college students. How the heck are we supposed to write an interesting article if you dull kids are around?"

"Gosh, I never thought of it that way. I guess if my debt to the country will be partially paid by being a bum in college..."

"You're darn tooting it would. Now get out there and live it up and destroy your body and mind and try to escape from the world that we put you in."

"Well, that sounds pretty easy."

"It is. It is the easiest way. Say, I like you, kid. I'm gonna help you out. Here's a cool way of saying good bye. You simply say, 'Keep in touch.'"

"Keep in touch? Doesn't sound very good."

"Listen, kid, it's very big in New Jersey. That's where the action is."

"Keep in touch?" "Keep in touch."

"Keep in touch." "Keep in touch."

Campus Combo Will Entertain

"The Group," a small folk music combo at Wartburg, will provide entertainment for a Life program banquet at St. John's American Lutheran Church, Cedar Falls, on Tuesday, Oct. 24.

Members and instrumentation of this group are senior Marg Beatty, who sings soprano and plays tambourine; junior Pat Maxon, who also sings soprano; junior Diane Schalkhauser, alto; transfer student Marc Goldenstein, who sings tenor and plays string bass; and junior Tom Schumacher, who sings bass and plays guitar.

"The Group" is new this year. It was organized out of the remnants of other previous groups by Dr. James Fritchell of the Music Department.

Its main purpose is to accommodate the requests for small combos.

"EVERYTHING FOR THE WELL-DRESSED LADY"

Open Friday Til 9

WINTER

Junior Judy Haviland models a green, red, yellow and black plaid skirt, which is accented by a yellow short sleeved military style turtle-necked sweater. Her black knee socks and red suede shoes also add a highlight to the entire outfit.

This A-line plum and many checked heather dress was made by the model, sophomore Sue Schultz, and is highlighted with a 3/4 length jacket of the same color.

WOMEN

IN FASHIONS

Shoes for men show a lot of variety this season. Here the model displays the popular wing tip, loafers, and shoes for casual wear.

Fashion Questions Are Answered

What will the well-dressed lady and gentleman about the Wartburg campus be wearing this winter? Are button-down collars fashionable now? Is it true that double-breasted wool jackets will be seen this winter on campuses across the country?

These are questions all students are asking right now as the days grow shorter and the thermometer drops. The Trumpet, eager that the Wartburg student be well-informed as to the correct dress as winter approaches, is devoting this section of its Homecoming issue to "Winter Wonders in Fashion."

* Bring back the belt. Wear them string narrow, wide and pleated, solid or cut away to show the fabric underneath. Some of the most decorative new designs are chains of metal which come in single or multiple layers. That makes you part of the "midi" crowd--and it saves you dollars because most fashions seers don't see long skirts coming in for several seasons.

* Get out one old coat that may be mid-leg length and wear it over a short skirt.

* Make a match between your hose and your chemise, and color yourself one family.

One new way to make this fashion tie-up for fall: textured Pant-Tites by Gossard-

Artemis that come in seven shades to match exactly the best undercover hues and correlate with dresses and suits. They are full length, loose textured hose.

* Put a hat on your head. After seasons of bare locks, head lines are covering up again with adaptations of helmets, westerns, gob caps, and military toppers.

* Buy a bigger bag. Paris designers are showing big knitting bags with chain handles and expect to sew up a storm of bigger hold-alls.

Winter Fashions Bright; Choice Of Style Is Free

By JEANNE COOLON

Bright! loud! smart! and 'tis the season to be jolly!

Put yourself into a dreamer's seat and watch the rich colors and festive arrangements come forth this winter in both men's and women's wear.

Winter 1967 finds spring's light, bright colors transformed into deeper, richer hues of dark tones--desert browns, reds, coppers, oranges, bronzes and teal greens.

The proper frame of mind...gay, resilient, light and quick...depends a lot on the proper clothes. The brief and dashing little pant dress is one in which you can get into the proper mood.

Also culottes with a pleat to make them look like a skirt or kilts with buckles. Ladies' fashions are coated with stripes--both big and small.

In sweaters, shirt sweaters and button-down collars and cuffs are the latest. The maxi sweater (which is belted below the waist) is also new.

Men are hardly on the sidelines of fashion now with their striped and plaid pants and sports coats. Men's 1967 winter fashions can also use the adjectives bright, wild and gay!

Tips Given For Men

A few "tips" on good grooming and proper wardrobe care are always valuable to the man who is careful and conscientious about his appearance. Whether beginning a new school year or just renovating your wardrobe, these tips are handy:

1) For hanging your suits, use only hangers that are shaped and made of plastic or wood--wire hangers won't do.

2) If the seats of your trousers tend to become shiny, put a cloth cover on your wooden desk chair. When driving, try a cushion between yourself and the auto's seat cover. This will keep the fabric from rubbing against smooth surfaces.

3) Use a rack--not a hanger--for your ties. Knit ties should be kept in a drawer, after being rolled up neatly.

4) New shoes should be polished before they are worn the first time. The leather will thus be softened and the shoes will be easier to break in.

5) You can avoid a wrinkled collar by slipping your tie into place before you button that top button, and then knot your tie with the collar down.

On the campus lawn, junior Bob Olson and freshman Ron Macholz display a few "interests." Bob wears a brown button-down sweater and Ron an olive green turtle-neck.

Traditional Look Is Best For Today's Undergraduate

An olive green suit accented with a mustard stripe is a look that is predicted to go far. Junior Bill Mayer wears this fashion as he awaits his date to Kastle Kapers, a Homecoming production which calls for the smartest in semi-formal attire by both the ladies and the gentlemen who attend Wartburg College.

Return to the traditional look is right for the undergraduate, according to Robert L. Green, PLAYBOY fashion director.

Dressed in the fashions of today, the undergraduate finds the subtle appeal of the shaped suit. Unexpectedly, he also finds a patterned vest repeating the pattern of the pants coordinated with a solid blazer.

Gives Bold Look

A powerful plaid jacket balanced by the softer look of a pull-over and tapered slacks portrays a bold traditional look. Bold patterns and checks are in, but the student's wardrobe should be contrasted with subtle patterns.

Prevalent are the standard oxford button-down shirts in the latest patterns, but longer collar points are found on the newer dress shirts complemented by a wide assortment of three-inch ties.

A sure hit is the cable-patterned sweater as big bulky sweaters come in strong on college campuses.

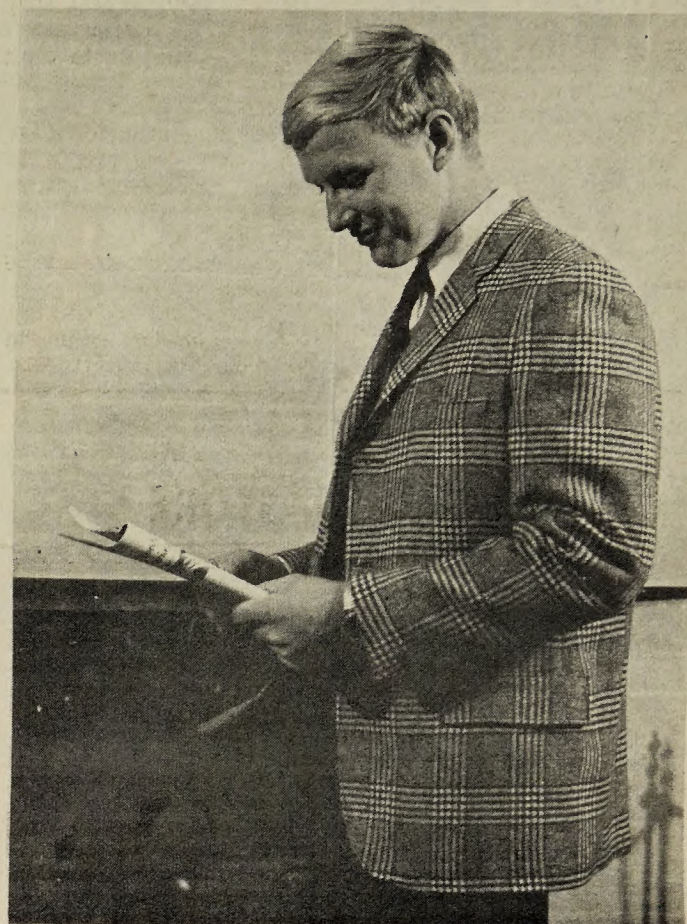

Rating high is corduroy in a shortened trench coat look portraying the informal look as well as double-breasted wool jackets with front vents.

Slacks Have Variety

Variety in slacks includes solid hopsack trousers, checks, stripes and tattersalls with a trend toward heavier tweed slacks.

Selecting bold colors and stripes, coin dots, tattersalls, big herringbones and checkerboard patterns, the undergraduate steps lively in fashionable socks.

Keeping with the traditional look, he selects the blunt toe look in the latest shoes making him a step ahead in fashion.

Senior Terry Slinguff, business major, boasts a red, black and brown plaid sports jacket and vest as he relaxes and enjoys reading the evening paper. His brown wool pants and brown silk tie add to make this "look" prevalent for today's college male.

Rating high in fashion is the horizontal striped dress, as worn by freshman Linda Lohr. After a picnic meal Linda and freshman Tom McKee relax and enjoy the fall weather. Tom's chili-colored sweater is complemented by a white dickey.

A style prevalent in almost every college girl's wardrobe is the pants dress. Awaiting the football game, senior Jolene Willer wears this brown cordury fashion, which is emphasized by a bone-ribbed turtle-neck sweater.

'What's A What?'

By PAT RUNDHAUG

"What do I think of what?" questioned the young man.

Another masculine figure asked, "What do I think of fish net hose? - - - pretty leaky!"

"Oh, those, -- I think they're groovy."

Groovy or not, it seems that the Knights of Wartburg notice what the Knighties are wearing, but don't know what to call it.

"They're probably comfortable," "I can't tell them from a dress," and "They look fine to me," were some of the comments.

Comments made on the knee-hi boots were not quite so acceptable. Knee-hi boots are not snow boots, but rather just for looks.

One outspoken Knight commented, "They're the next best thing to combat boots--I don't like 'em."

Another was more practical, "If you have ugly legs, they'd really help. But if you don't, there's no use to cover them up."

One student wasn't too concerned with what they looked like; he was more concerned with how to get a pair. When asked why, he replied, "I'd just like to have them for the monsoon season."

Fish-net hose were moderately popular among the Knights. Some thought they looked good with sports clothes, but not more formal attire. Others commented that they looked out of place.

Perhaps the most rewarding comment was this: "It depends on who's wearing them and how they wear them that counts."

Several Wartburg men were asked what they thought of mini-skirts. No explanation was needed. But, surprisingly, their overall comment was that they looked great on some girls and horrible on others.

Need a moral to the story? Wear what looks good on you and you'll look great--to everyone.

Always a popular site on the Wartburg campus is the picturesque fish pond. Dressed in a white furry coat accented with blue speckles, junior Linda Halverson stops for a minute to relive some of her Homecoming activities.

There are a lot of different styles of shoes this year for women. Tie shoes for the girls are quite popular this year. Here the models display everything in style and color for dress and casual wear.
